

PARKHURST DOESN'T LIKE IT

BYRNES'S SERMON PROVOKES HIM TO THE SHOUTING POINT

He Admires the Superintendent for the Lord's sake to "Come Off" the Gospel, and Says he is Telling the City to Go to the Devil. The Superintendent of the Lord's sake to "Come Off" the Gospel, and Says he is Telling the City to Go to the Devil. The Superintendent of the Lord's sake to "Come Off" the Gospel, and Says he is Telling the City to Go to the Devil.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

STRIKERS APPARENTLY BEATEN

The Rock Island Seems Able to Get Along Without the Men Who Have Quit

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—Although the reports concerning the telegraph operators' strike on the Rock Island road given out by the railroad officials and Chief Engineer of the Order of Railway Telegraphers are widely different, it is almost certain that the men are beaten, and that the Rock Island can get along without those who quit. Ramsay appears to have precipitated the strike before his forces were properly organized, and on wrong information. He seems to have depended upon aid from the engineers, firemen, switchmen, and trainmen. He has had a conference in the afternoon with the Grand Master of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, and the latter has agreed to return to work.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

FIGHTING FOR THE SENATE

THAT'S THE SOLE BUSINESS OF THE DEMOCRATIC SENATORS HERE

If the Republicans are Going to Retain Their Legislatures, They Must Be Done in the Light—No Mission to Mr. Cleveland—Some of the Senators Expect to Pay Their Respects to Him Today

The three Democratic United States Senators, Gorman, Brice, and Carlisle, who came to New York to take steps to prevent the Republican Legislatures from depriving the Democrats of a majority in the United States Senate, were busy yesterday morning in the city. They were busy yesterday morning in the city. They were busy yesterday morning in the city.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

CAPT. HAUGHEY GETS MRS. LESLIE

She Was Not In When His Detectives Called—His Fifty Prisoners in Court

About fifty prisoners were arraigned at Jefferson Market yesterday by Capt. Haughey, the new commander of the Mercer street station, and his men, who, on Thursday night, rescued a woman from the hands of a man. Justice Ryan was indignant when he learned that Mrs. Leslie, keeper of the house at 30 East Twelfth street, had not been arrested. Detectives Carey and Sloan said that ten minutes before they arrived the woman had left in a cab.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

THE VIEWS WERE THE POPE'S

AND ARCHBISHOP SATOLLI WAS AUTHORIZED TO EXPRESS THEM

The Papal Ambalg says they were correctly set forth in the Pamphlet that Has Been Published—His Legation Powers Conferred in Writing—How the Pamphlet About the Fairbank School Plan Got Out

St. Louis, Dec. 9.—It has been discovered how Archbishop Satolli's address reached the public. Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul sent it to the Rev. Father Phelan, editor of the Western Catholic, a Catholic journal of this city, and he sold it to the press associations. Friends of Archbishop Ireland explain that he felt a personal pride in the address because it practically endorsed the Fairbank plan, of which he is the most prominent advocate, but he deemed it beneath his dignity to give out directly news which was so much in his favor. Father Phelan gladly assumed the responsibility, as the address endorsed the position on the school question for which he has labored so long and successfully.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

SUZETTE WENT WITH THE WINNER

And All the Rest of the Night There Was a Riot in Wenatchee

SPokane, Dec. 9.—Tom Guillard, a grader on the Great Northern Railroad, had great luck at gambling last night in Wenatchee, 100 miles west of Spokane, where he started a riot that kept the town in an uproar all night. To 11 o'clock he had won $2,000 at cards. With this sum he went to a gambling house kept by Giuseppe Vaco. His play here was successful, and finally he threw all his money on the table and bet on the queen and ace. When his pile was counted it was found to contain $5,000. Vaco took it all. Guillard went home. Vaco paid, but it broke the bank.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

MUCH TALK OF ANNEXATION

CANADIAN JOURNALS STILL DISCUSSING THE DOMINION'S FUTURE

A Disposition to Regard the Prices of Commodities and the Wages of Labor Rather than Memories of Men and Waterways

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—The Canadian press do not seem inclined to call a halt to the free discussion they have entered upon regarding Canada's future. From the leading city daily to the backwoods weekly, they all want to have their say, and the feeling seems to be spreading. In a Montreal audience of 3,000 one night last week nearly 1,000, including the best business and professional men of the metropolis, voted for political union with the United States. Here in the eastern townships there are to-day ten annexationists for every one who is not.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.

Dr. Parkhurst glowered on every man who called and mentioned Mr. Byrnes's letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter. He said he would make a statement at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the shape of another open letter.